

CALLAHAN, DAN
?-October 14, 1905

Our citizens were surprised on Saturday morning to learn of the death of Dan Callahan, who lived two miles northeast of town. Mr. Callahan had not been in good health for a year past, and death was due to heart failure.

Funeral services were held on Sunday at three o'clock at the M.E. church, a large crowd being in attendance at the services. Interment was made in the Wheatland cemetery.

Dan Callahan was an old-timer in this section, having moved to the state from Colorado thirty years ago. He is survived by a wife, who has the sympathy of everyone in her bereavement.
