

him, and his unusual talent for music promised much. We try to understand it is all for the best, but just how, we cannot see. The whole community misses him, and the place he had in our hearts can never be filled. My one consolation in my deep sorrow over his loss, is the fact that all that could have been done for him, was done, and that no effort was spared to save his life. The members of the Boys' Band desire that I express our appreciation for the kindness shown toward Rahe during his illness and for the respect and honor shown after his death.

J.B. McPherson