

Myrtle V. Cundall

11-1-1990

Funeral services for Myrtle V. Cundall, age 91, were held at Saint John's Episcopal Church in Glendo Tuesday, Nov. 6 at 2 p.m., with Father Anthony Bullman officiating.

Mrs. Cundall died Thursday, Nov. 1 at the Platte County Memorial Hospital in Wheatland. Interment followed the service in the Wheatland Cemetery.

Myrtle V. Cundall was born Dec. 19, 1898 at Max, Neb., the daughter of Robert and May (Ochs) Shillington. She was reared and educated in Nebraska.

She married Walter R. Cundall in March, 1918, in Stanton, Neb. In June, 1918, they moved to Wyoming to a homestead northeast of Glendo where they established a successful ranching operation. They remained on the homestead until the building of the Glendo Dam.

She was very active in community programs, the Extension Homemakers Club and received the Susan J. Quealy award, which honors Extension Homemakers who have shown outstanding records of accomplishments in their counties, in 1980.

She was active in the Senior Citizens, serving as president for three years, the Episcopal Church and Sunday School and many other activities. She was fond of local school basketball games and other school programs.

She is survived by two sons, Glen Cundall and Lee Cundall, both of Glendo, seven grandchildren, thirteen great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents, her husband, a daughter, Ruth, and a grandson, Robert Wakeley.

Serving as pallbearers were Jim Wilson, Don Sanborn, Larry Cundall, Danny Cundall, Russell Cundall and Jim Cundall. Honorary pallbearers was Mark Cundall.

A memorial to the Cathedral Home in Laramie or to the charity of your choice would be appreciated by the family.

Platte Funeral Chapel was in charge of arrangements.
