

and through his long year of suffering, was never heard to complain. He was a kind and indulgent husband and father, a courteous and accommodating citizen and neighbor, and pleasant memories of his beautiful character will ever be green in the memory of his friends.